1. The patient understands and agrees to allow this chiropractic office to use their Patient Health Information (PHI) for the purpose of treatment, payment, healthcare operations, and coordination of care. As an example, the patient agrees to allow this chiropractic office to submit requested PHI to the Health Insurance Company (or companies) provided to us by the patient for the purpose of payment. Be assured that this office will limit the release of all PHI to the minimum needed for what the insurance companies require for payment.
2. The patient has the right to examine and obtain a copy of his or her own health records at any time and request corrections. The patient may request to know what disclosures have been made and submit in writing any further restrictions on the use of their PHI. 3. A patient's written consent need only be obtained one time for all subsequent care given the patient in this office.
4. The patient may provide a written request to revoke consent at any time during care. This would not effect the use of those records for the care given prior to the written request to revoke consent but would apply to any care given after the request has been presented.

The nature of the chiropractic adjustment:

I will use my hands or a mechanical instrument upon your body in such a way as to move your joints. This procedure is referred to as ”Spinal Manipulation” or Spinal Adjustment” As the joints in your spine are moved, you may experience a “pop” as part of the process.

The risks inherent in chiropractic adjustment:

As with any healthcare procedure, there are certain complications that can occur as a result of a spinal manipulation. These compilations include, but are not limited to: muscle strain, cervical myelopathy, disc and vertebral injury, fractures, strains and dislocations, Bernard-Horner’s Syndrome, costovertebral strains and separation. Some types of manipulations of the neck have been associated with injuries to the arteries in the neck, leading to or contributing to serious complications including stroke. Some patients will experience some stiffness and soreness following the first few days of treatment.

The probability of those risks occurring:

Fractures are rare in occurrences and generally result do to some underlying weakness of the bone, which we check for during the examination and x-ray. Stroke has been the subject of tremendous disagreement within and outside of the profession. One prominent authority states that there is, at most a one out of a million chance of such outcome. Even with probabilities stated as such, we strive to reduce risk by performing specific exams which are designed to identify if you may be susceptible to that kind of injury. The other complications are generally described as “rare”.

The availability and nature of other treatment options:

Other options available for condition include:

Self-administered, over the counter analgesics and rest
Medical care with prescription drugs, such as anti-inflammatory drugs, muscle relaxers, and pain killers.
Hospitalization with traction
Surgery

The risks inherent in such options and the probability of such risks occurring include:

Overuse of over-the-counter medications produce undesirable side effects. If complete rest is impractical, premature return to work and household chores may aggravate the condition and extend the recovery time. The probability of such complications arising is dependent upon the patient's general health, severity of the patient's discomfort, his or her pain tolerance, and self discipline in not abusing the medicine. Professional literature describes highly undesirable side effects of long term use of over-the-counter medication.

Prescription muscle relaxers and pain killers and produce undesirable side effects and patient dependence. The probability of such complications arising is dependent upon the patient's general health, severity of the patient's discomfort, his or her pain tolerance, and self discipline in not abusing the medicine and proper professional supervision. Such medications generally entail very significant risks, some with rather high probability.

Hospitalization in conjunction in other care bares the additional risk of exposure to communicable disease, iatrogenic (doctor caused) mishap and expense. The probability of iatrogenic mishap is remote, expense is certain, exposure to communicable disease is likely with adverse results from such exposure is dependent upon unknown variables.

The risks inherent to surgery include adverse reaction to anesthesia, iatrogenic mishap, all risks associated with hospitalization listed before increased due to extended exposure. The probability of those risks occurring varies due to several factors.

The risk and dangers attendant to remaining untreated:

Remaining untreated allows the formation of adhesion and reduces mobility which sets up a pain response that further decreases mobility. Overtime, this process may complicate treatment making it more difficult to treat, and less effective the longer care is postponed. The probability that non-treatment will complicate future rehabilitation is very high.

DO NOT SIGN UNTIL YOU HAVE READ AND UNDERSTAND THE ABOVE

I have read, or have had read to me, the above explanation of chiropractic adjustment and related treatment. I have discussed it with my doctor at Symmetry Chiropractic Wellness Center and I have had all of my questions answered to my satisfaction. By signing below, I state that I have weighed the risks involved in undergoing treatment and have decided that it is in my best interest to undergo the recommended treatment. Having been informed of the risks, I hereby give my consent to that treatment.
